Excerpt: . . . In the renewed mind everything is in harmony so long as we dwell under the restricting power of truth; which restrains the eagerness and activity of the natural mind, and prevents it from all hurried and mistaken steps. --Waring. JULY. Let your moderation be known unto all all men. --Philippians iv. 5. Moderation in thought, word, and deed is a great attainment. It is good to remember this, and constantly to feel after that inward calmness which keeps the mind equable and steadfast. --Solitaire. 2. The things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal. --1 Cor. iv. 18. For want of seeking the universal and immutable law of truth, men see nothing that is real, nothing but what deceives. --Fenelon. Through Thy precepts I get understanding; therefore I hate ever)false way. --Psalm cxix. 104. What precepts are these, and where did the Psalmist look for them In the Bible, would be the reply of most persons. But, seing that there was no Bible in Davids day, and that the greater part of the preceptive portion which we have of it in ours, came from David himself, is it not reasonable to conclude that he sought and found the precepts of which he speaks, in the teaching of Gods Spirit in his soul--Editor. 4 God is One. --Galatians iii. 20. In all things we find the Universal Truth to be but One, and that it speaks truth inwardly...
